adjusting tacrolimus because of hiv treatment. Several transplant drugs interact with medicines used to treat hiv infection, particularly hiv protease inhibitors.

The material includes urine and blood samples from victims, and soil samples.

Thanks to recent legislation, with a standing order from a licensed doctor, first responders are now able to administer naloxone to those who can benefit from it.